Local Educator Selected as Emerging Leader

NORTH LAS VEGAS, NV—Christina Brooks, chief of staff for the Southeast Region superintendent, has been recognized as an Emerging Leader by PDK International, a leading association of education professionals.

Throughout her career, she has been a dean of students at Legacy High School and an English teacher at Mojave High School and West Middle School, all in the Clark County School District.

“After my positive and rewarding experiences as a teacher and as an administrator, it is my goal to take those experiences, as well as the knowledge and skills I have learned, and help other teachers be successful, especially in at-risk schools,” Brooks said.

A committee made up of PDK’s past Emerging Leaders selected the 20 honorees from a competitive field of applicants.

“The 20 members of the 2008-09 Class of Emerging Leaders embody the PDK tenets of leadership, research, and service,” said William Bushaw, PDK’s executive director. “They represent the best of the profession.”
